Art Talk

If you feel you have truly finished your drawing pair up with another student and critique their work.

Talk about the artworks focal point.

What is the most important part of the composition? What do you think is the symbolic meaning behind this object?

How does the artist lead your eye there?

Talk about the artworks crosshatching.

Are there a wide range of lights and darks? Are there any areas of value that could be expanded?

Are the crosshatching marks made detailed or expressive?

Return to your work

After your discussion with your partner take some time to just look at the work you have made. Is there anything new you notice that you think you could change? Did your partner help you think of anything that could be improved? Make any final adjustments to your art work.

Remember: "Art is never finished, only abandoned."

- Leonardo da Vinci
